

Four Parts of Medicare

Medicare health insurance usually begins when you turn 65, although people under 65 with certain disabilities and health conditions are also eligible. Medicare has four parts:

PART A

Part A covers inpatient hospital care, skilled nursing facility care, hospice, and home health care.

PART B

Part B covers doctor and specialists visits, outpatient care, durable medical equipment, and preventive services.

PART C

Part C, also known as Medicare Advantage, provides all Part A and Part B benefits and may also include prescription drug coverage and other benefits. Part C is offered by private companies that contract with Medicare.

PART D

Part D is prescription drug coverage. Part D is offered by private companies that contract with Medicare.
